V. Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims	YES
	Claims 1-6	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims	YES
	Claims 1-6	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims 1-6	YES
	Claims	NO

2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

Reference is made to the following document:

D1: JP 09-39884 A (KAWASE INDUSTRY) 27 July 1995

D1 relates to a swimming device for playing and moving in the water by operating buoyant walking body shoes connected to flexible wires having mechanical propulsion, including a floating support rod with a round frame connected to a right-left fixed buoyant body for the sake of health and leisure of users.

(1) Novelty (N) and Inventive Step (IS): Claims 1 to 6

The following are comparisons between claims 1-6 and the prior art document D1:

It is easily found that the technical features of the present invention including a body section (110) with a support frame (112), a first floating section (120) with a first floating part (134) and a second floating section (150) with connecting wires (152) correspond to the technical features of D1 including a round frame (2), a floating support rod (1) with a right-left fixed buoyant body (3) and right-left fixed buoyant walking bodies (6, 7) connected to flexible wires (8). It is considered that said technical features of both inventions carry out the same functions substantially.

The technical features described in claims 2 to 6 are also considered to have the same function as a baby walker which is widely used.

Thus, it would be obvious to a person skilled in this technical field to derive the technical features of the present invention from the technical features of D1 and said baby walker, thereby arriving at the subject matter of the present invention without the special exercise of inventive skill.

Therefore, present claims 1 to 6 do not meet the requirement of PCT Article 33(2) and 33(3).
